COLONEL BALL THANKS HIS FRIENDS FOR THEIR SUPPORT--HIS STATEMENT

Colonel Thomas H. Ball of Houston who was defeated in the Democratic primaries of last Saturday for governor has given to the press the following statement:

No greater tribute has ever been paid any man or candidate for office in Texas or elsewhere than has come to me in this contest. The most devoted and loyal support given to me in my campaign for governor by multiplied thousands of friends throughout the State who stand for clear positions and good government has placed me under obligations which I can never repay and words can not express my gratitude for the services rendered and sacrifices made by my self. Would that I could personally express my deep appreciation to each and all of my friends who have honored me with their confidence and support.

I have tried to conduct my campaign upon a plan worthy the great office of governor and am sure that I have not said or done anything unworthy the splendid character of my opponent. My defeat but temporarily halts the success of the principles for which I stood and fought. No man or candidate is necessary to succeed where my place in future will be in the ranks. I shall continue to work for the cause of my State and the advancement of the ideals and policies contained in my platform.

Questions are soon settled until they are settled right, and I have an abiding confidence that progressive democracy will prevail in Texas and that the open nation and the human interests in our politics will not long be permitted to exist in this State.
